FIRST FEDERAL TO PAY DIVIDENDS

Present Business Volume Largest In Entire Life Of The Local Organization

Announcement is made that the First Federal Savings & Loan Association will distribute dividend checks tomorrow—July 1st—which checks have been placed in the mails today.

Shareholders of the institution, and friends in general, will be interested to learn that the present volume of business is the largest in the history of the organization, and that the total of dividends, on a basis of 3 percent per annum will approximate $11,000. Total shares outstanding to date are in excess of $800,000.

The figures compared with the beginning in August, 1939, give a favorable comment upon the growth of service in those thirteen years. The institution began with a capital of around $5,000, and the growth from that day to the present has been steady and permanent. Deposits are insured under the Federal Deposit Insurance laws.

Directors of the organization are J. B. Averitt, C. E. Cone, Loran Durdin, H. Z. Smith, D. B. Turner and L. E. Tyson. Officers are: President, H. Z. Smith; vice-president, C. E. Cone; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. J. B. Averitt. Officers are on Courtland street facing the Statesboro fire department.

Mr. Mikell says that most of the Bulloch county chapters will be represented at least part of this four-day train school.

Farm Bureau chapters will be hosts at a barbecue on Tuesday, July 12. Guests of the county organizations will include farm leaders of the thirteen Southern states and officials of the American Farm Bureau Federation from Washington and Chicago. Information from the southern region indicates that attendance will reach a new high. Mr. Wingate stated, pointing out that the program for this year's session "will include some of the nation's outstanding leaders in the field of agriculture."

Following the barbecue, Governor Herman Tamm and Edward A. O'Neal, Florence, Ala., will be the principal speakers at a meeting at the Sheraton Bon-Air in Augusta, he announced. Gov. Strom Thurmond, of South Carolina, is also scheduled for a major address at the 1949 conference.

Turpentine Baths

A MORE OR LESS serious study of the matter, leaves us with the conviction that, with all the progressive movements, the Sunday morning (or Saturday night) bath has made about the least advancement of any of the social sciences.

Giving due credit for the reduction in the size of the bath tub—now about half as large as that which we first sat down in—the danger of a fall is slightly reduced by the fact that a fellow cannot fall full-length in the modern tub. But the truth remains that he does fall as hard, even if he gets hurt in a fewer places.

At the recent meeting of the Press Association, Ernest Camp, the poet laureate of Georgia, was walking around with a sort of stiff-backed, which followed an accident. He explained that some weeks ago he had fallen in the tub, and was still cautious of that implement as a dangerous threat against life and limb. He didn't declare his permanent abandonment of the tub, but words let up to a possibility of that.

In the crowd were an older member who had long years ago fallen full-length, and who had learned by experience that as a threat against life and limb and happiness, there had been more fatalities in the bath tub than in the famous Battle of Aurora Borealis. He suggested that the grave danger of the bath tub lay chiefly in the quality and quantity of soap used—and he suggested that it would be always safer to omit soap.

Editor Camp and those others were interested, of course, and asked what to use as a safety cleanser. The wise one—who had fallen—suggested that turpentine was less slippery (and there the matter was supposed to have been dropped). At the dinner table that noon at which the Savannah daily papers were hosts there stood by every plate of the three hundred guests a pint-sized bottle of turpentine, with the compliments of the Turpentine & Rosin Factors, Inc. President John Norwood, who had heard the discussion on the matter earlier in the day, was mystified as to whether the bottles were a hint—or merely a co-incidence. And the problem is still unanswered.

But there is no doubt that turpentine is a cleanser—and less treacherous than soap.

Ravens Fed Elijah!

ONE OF THE STORIES which impressed us in our younger days, and which has more recently been revived in our memory by incidents of our own life, was that about Elijah and the ravens.

As the story was impressed upon our mind, Elijah was one of those impatient fellows who wanted things done his way—and quickly. Because of apparent lack of co-operation, he abandoned the job and went into hiding in some desolate spot while he lamented the hopelessness of the situation.

Some few of our readers will recall the story, and will recognize that the outstanding incident was the service rendered the despondent old prophet by that flock of ravens who were said to have brought food regularly to him while he mourned. It wasn't the custom in sacred circles at that time to look behind the cover for a solution of the miraculous incidents, but as an inquisitive lad we sort of tolerated the suspicion that the old recluse was actually snitching the food that the ravens carried to that hiding place for their own needs, and perhaps as food for their young.

Being a sort of birding oneself, our sympathies inclined toward the young ravens who were thus being left hungry, if you can grasp our point.

Well, last week for a couple of days this aged editor, with members of his official household, went away on a sort of foraging expedition—to the Georgia Press Convention. It was not exactly a season for lamentation, but in a measure the important incidents of the days were similar to that raven-feeding incidents which peeped up that old prophet of the long ago. At noon and night tables were spread by generous friends (they were really birds!) with an invitation "Come and get it."

For two days we were made to forget any measure of gloom and doubt, as we were being "shown" that there are yet multitudes of generous, helpful friends.

And then when we reached home for the much needed rest from the vacation, there was piled upon our desk an assortment of choicest food—better, we avow, than Elijah ever dreamed of—a pile of sixteen-inch corn brought in by Jerry Hart, a couple of mammoth luscious cantaloupes left by D. W. Bragan, long-time subscriber of the Brooklet community; a big bagful of bright red tomatoes by the hand of our lady subscriber, Mrs. E. L. Shaw, of the Brooklet community; then later a most bounteous basket of beautiful light brown bread brought in by Mrs. W. L. Jones, and lastly yesterday afternoon a half-peck bag of Porto Rico yams, evenly divided between old and new crop produce, from that prince of a friend, A. F. Harris, who has been bringing in the first potato regularly for the past thirty years or more. Now all of these gifts had been brought to us with friendly intent, whereas we have always suspected that those scraps of food which Elijah appropriated that time some thousands of years ago were not really intended for him.

And all this makes us happy that we live in the present era!

MISS MINCEY MARRIES

MR. SMITH IN HOME RITES

At nine o'clock Sunday morning, June 26, Miss Minnie Mincey, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cleveland Mincey, of Claxton, became the bride of Harold Carter Smith, son of Mrs. Sallie Alderman Smith, and the late Joshua Smith Sr., of Brooklet. The mother of the bride is the former Miss Fannie Myrtle Olliff, of Bulloch county.

At the home of the bride's parents, the Rev. John B. Burch, pastor of the First Baptist church, performed the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends. Mrs. John Burch rendered the wedding music.

The living room mantel backed with magnolia leaves, with mirror above framed with ivy, formed the background for the wedding party. Beautiful arrangements of white gladioli and Easter lilies in pedestal standards were placed on either side.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was lovely in her wedding dress of white linen which was worn by her mother thirty-seven years ago. The waist, fashioned with a square lace yoke, fitted closely to the neck and buttoned down the back. Bands of cutwork extended over the shoulders to the waistline in front and back. The full skirt, exquisitely embroidered, was skiddled at the bottom with cutwork above. Her accessories were navy and corsage was of tuberoses and white carnations.

Hamp Smith, of Brooklet, served as his brother's best man and Mrs. Derieux W. Mincey, of Claxton, was matron of honor. She wore a yellow summer cotton which was made with full skirt and a lace insertion bodice. Her corsage was of white gladioli.

The bride's wedding band, a family heirloom, belonged to her maternal grandmother.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony. The lace-covered bride's table was centered with the elaborately decorated three-tiered wedding cake, encircled with small sprays of ivy and miniature clusters of white hydrangeas. Mrs. J. Furber Mincey, assisted by Miss Scott Smith and Miss Sue Neil Smith, served refreshments.

Miss Mincey was graduated from GSCW and has taught in the Statesboro High School for the past several years. Mr. Smith, a veteran of six years' naval service, is now employed in farming. After a short wedding trip to North Carolina, the couple will reside at the groom's home near Brooklet.

After a wedding trip to North Carolina, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home in their apartment at 410 Far road, Statesboro. Mrs. Smith will continue to operate Dot's Beauty Parlor and Mr. Smith is connected with his father in farming.

AFTERNOON BRIDGE CLUB

Mrs. Jake Smith was hostess to members of her afternoon bridge club and a few other guests at a delightful party Friday afternoon. Gladioli decorated the room and a dessert was served. For club high score a vase went to Mrs. Paul Sauve, and for visitors' high Mrs. Bert Riggs won costume jewelry. A potted plant for cut was won by Mrs. Thomas Smith and for low Mrs. Gerald Grover was given a vase. Others playing were Mrs. Buford Knight, Mrs. Frank Hook, Mrs. Julian Hodges, Mrs. Albert Green, Mrs. William Smith, Mrs. Sidney Dodd, Mrs. Paul Franklin Jr., Mrs. Claude Howard, Mrs. Don Hackett, Mrs. F. C. Parker Jr., Mrs. Lawrence Mallard and Mrs. W. R. Lovett.

REHEARSAL PARTY

Mrs. J. W. Clendenning, of Jacksonville, was the lovely party Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hobson Donaldson on Donaldson street for the members of the Rushing-Hart wedding party and out-of-town guests. Pink and white gladioli formed beautiful decorations for the rooms, and centering the individual tables were exquisite arrangements of small gladioli and bride mint cups. The bride motif was also used in the napkins and plates. Demi-tasse cups were presented by Miss Rushing to her attendants and to Mrs. Gilbert Cone, who rendered the wedding music. Cuff links were the gift to Aldrich from the groom, and the attendant was Mrs. W. R. Lovett, Mrs. Earl Allen, Mrs. Bernard Morris, Mrs. Bob Niver and Mrs. Carl Sanders.

A delightful occasion of Monday evening was the fish fry given by Mrs. Ray Hodges at her home on College street as a surprise to Mr. Hodges, who was observing his birthday. The delicious meal was served on the lawn and guests included Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hodges and Mrs. Curtis Tootle, Savannah; Miss Lucile Hodges, Claxton; Mr. and Mrs. Eli Hodges, Mr. and Mrs. Thurman Lanier, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Yarborough and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Allen.

HALF-HIGH CLUB

Members of the Half-High Bridge Club were delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon by Miss Maxann Foy at her home on Savannah avenue. Summer flowers were used about the rooms and a sweet course was served. Attractive prizes went to Miss Helen Rowne for high score, to Mrs. W. P. Brown for low and to Mrs. Joe Robert Tiltman for cut. Others playing were Mrs. W. R. Lovett, Mrs. Earl Allen, Mrs. Bernard Morris, Mrs. Bob Niver and Mrs. Carl Sanders.
